

- 7. Review and Wrap Up of 2017 NJLS Show – Board members discussed possible action for some 2018 exhibitors regarding behavior during specific shows. This discussion was table until the next full Board meeting. A question was raised by Tami Olsen regarding the swine judge and the judging standards he used if they were to jackpot show standards or market standards. Matt McKinney assured the Board that the judging standards used by all judges were market/breeding standards, not jackpot show standards. Matt McKinney noted that for the 2019 show, there would need to be two separate judges to judge sheep and goats. In the past one judge has done both species but that is no longer feasible. The Board comment as a whole about how great the student interns were for the 2018 show.
